

My goal for this website is to create a fun and easy-to-use space for fans of bleach anime. The site will let visitors explore content related to their favorite bleach characters and about their, powers, and status. I will use HTML to structure the website, making it more accessible for all users. The design will have a clean, modern layout using CSS for styling, with Grid to make sure the site looks good on desktops, and phones. I will focus on fast loading times by optimizing images and using good coding practices. The website will have simple navigation so users can easily find what they are looking for. It will be tested on different browsers to make sure it works well everywhere. The site will also have a contact form for visitors to share feedback or suggestions.
